When the users want to edit their own content, they can click on the button to validate a field. I want to limit the number of characters allowed and also limit the number of dashes allowed. The custom validator correctly limits the number of dashes and the error message also displays correctly. However, when I click on the submit button, the user gets an error message (in the view) about the phone field not being a valid phone number. The validation_data in my call to the validator is: [:value, {:field=>"phone", :message=>"is not a valid phone number"}] ...but apparently the 1cb139a0ed
