Terraria is an action-packed, block-building, platformer game that combines the best parts of Minecraft and Super Mario Bros. Play as a fearless adventurer and team up with friends to explore and survive in a fantasy world. Total Recall is an action/shooter game. You play as Paul Chambers, an average guy who is told by the government to undergo a weird experiment to implant false memories in his brain so that he can be spared the evils of a crappy reality. Unfortunately, Paul's hypnosis session starts to really affect him, and he is soon running amok in the Canadian frontier, killing, sinking...all kinds of stuff. A new Tumble-esque game is coming to Steam. A free demo is available now. A console version will be available in the summer of 2016 on Xbox One and Playstation 4. A small start-up company is working on a new venture to merge games with automation systems to help secure the future of humanity. They are launching their own crowdfunding campaign on Kickstarter to fund their first product, the artificial intelligence engine, Ajis. A successful Kickstarter campaign will lead to launch their first product within the next few years, giving Aji the ability to safely run all of the home automation, office automation, and smart cars of the future. Virtue Deceit is a new RPG inspired by classic games, such as Chrono Trigger, Final Fantasy, and The Legend of Zelda. You play as a godlike being who must collect all the crystals in the world to be granted ultimate power. Along the way, you must raise an army and develop your character, leading to a challenging, high-tech combat system. Steam has updated their policy on videos, which is a small thing, but we believe the change makes our videos more consistent across the store, which is pretty big. We recently launched a new mode of content creation for our Facebook page and videos. On Facebook, you can now create and edit videos that are live. If you visit your activity section, you'll see that most of the links will have a live icon rather than a link to a video

What's new:

Blood Bowl - Legendary Edition is the 1996 edition of the Blood Bowl board game. The rules were written by Chris Baylis and designed by John Hillier. The game is considerably more popular than the previous edition, with a virtually unchanged rule system, but the style and flair are more in line with Hillier's design philosophy. Contents Role Number and Description Player numbers are organized into different Player Types with the number used to represent a position in a formation. The player with this number controls unique units, while all other units follow the rules listed for the individual player type, but with few exceptions. The lowest number (ie. 1) is used to represent the Captain or General. Patchwork - The blue square in the center represents the player's "character", which is the sum of the remaining 8 numbers, and is changed as the game progresses. This is similar to the number used to depict position on the dice. Each player has one character. The class of each play is related to the player's character. Special Characters and Weapons that are not associated with any of the player classes are not counted when determining the class. The amount of points is based on the maximum value possible to the value of a parameter and the amount of turns. 1. Giants - carries only 4 scoring units and gets to move 5 Spaces as both his team and his opponents. The game is played over the course of 20 Rounds, or Tournaments. Each round takes place over a continuous sequence of 8 turns (see Turn Sequencing rules below). The game starts with the two teams positioned on opposite sides of a 20' playing field. Each team has a Ring of Talons on the outside track. On the opposing side of the field, the opposing team has a Ring of Staves. The field has a Flooded Surface with the Flood Rings having a Depth of 4. After placement on the Flooded Surface, the game goes in a sequence of turns, starting with the defense team to begin the turn. Each defense player rolls a D6, and the total rolls determines if they pass their turn. If they fail to pass their turn, they lose a certain number of Talons. When a Talon is withdrawn they lose 2 turns of action. If a player loses 25 or more Talons, they are removed from the field and cannot return on the same turn. The number of Talons lost is determined by a total roll of 2 or less. If a scoring play occurs

Imagine you're not on a spaceship. You don't have the power to explore and discover new galaxies. What if you didn't have to travel all the way out to the furthest reaches of the universe, but you could just lay on your couch and find out if the end of the world is coming? That's the premise of The Shapeshifting Monkey: "You live on your couch with seven other monkeys and take turns spinning a monkey wheel that causes you to transform into another monkey. The most interesting thing you ever do in the game is to find out which monkey you are in real life." With a randomizer randomly determining which monkey you start out as, you have to learn to trust that the randomizer isn't going to mess up your game. As you get better at guessing what monkey you are, you'll be able to make better decisions as to how to use your time in the game. That's not all. As you play through this hilarious experience, you'll be able to witness the show that is televised to the rest of the monkeys.
