Suppose that S is \mathbb{Q} -band, that is for each $a, b \in S$ there exists $c \in S$ such that $a, b, c \in \mathbb{Q}$. Prove that S is Abelian. A: I can solve this question by the following step. Let $s, t \in S$. Then there exists $x, y \in \mathbb{Q}$, such that $s = x + y$, $t = x - y$. Since S is \mathbb{Q} -band, $0 = s + t = x + y + x - y = s + t$, it follows that $s + t = 0$. Q: Output sqlite table as JSON formatted string in Python I am trying to read my sqlite db into python so i can send it over http. In the future i may use a python script to update the db. I am using the following function:

def read_db(self): cursor.execute('SELECT * FROM test') result = cursor.fetchall() for i in result: print(i) return result

 The first print out correctly returns each row as a list with a string and an integer. However the second print prints an error: `TypeError: 'str' object is not callable` This is because i am trying to return the list of lists in a string by returning the result of the for loop:

def read_db(self): cursor.execute('SELECT * FROM test') result = cursor.fetchall() return
