Roblox is a virtual world with games that can be created by you. It's a virtual world like a game, but instead of playing games with friends on a console or handheld device, you can create your own games and play them with friends on a web browser or your mobile device. You do this by building virtual worlds with a programming language called Lua, which lets you create 3D games, roleplaying games, and other fun experiences. How it works: When you first sign up for an account on the Roblox website, you're given an ID number that you can use to log in. When you log in, you're taken to your Roblox dashboard. Here, you can see all of your games, 3D objects you've created, tools to help you build things and so much more. You can also add money to your Robux wallet so you can buy virtual items and play games. Key Features: Roblox is free to play but lets you add money to your Robux wallet to buy virtual items. You can also buy Robux with real money and use it to buy virtual items. Many players buy Robux with real money from within the game so that they can get items and have fun faster. Roblox has a solid moderation system and is adept at weeding out offensive materials, including hate speech. Roblox bans players who distribute such content. In addition, Roblox is committed to supporting developing economies and has a Fair Trade Program that offers publishers the ability to earn money by selling their games through Roblox while earning a livable wage for their employees. Incorporating Social Media: Roblox has a huge user base and encourages its users to interact with one another. For example, while playing a game, you can communicate with other players directly through the game. If you want to chat or communicate with other players outside of the game, you can do that too by using the chat rooms or other social media tools. These tools allow you to stay in touch with people no matter where they are in the world. Roblox also has a virtual marketplace in which players can buy virtual items that can be used in games. In addition, Roblox collects information about your play, buying habits and searches in order to analyze your activity and show ads that are relevant to you. Roblox has been designed to give a safe space for children to explore and discover. In its Terms
